Dead Men Working in the Cane Fields (Fantasy and Horror Classics) W. B. Seabrook,2013-04-16 A lesser-known figure of America's Lost Generation, Seabrook was a prolific traveller and author. 'Dead Men Working in the Cane Fields' is an excerpt from his 1929 book The Magic Island, a folklore-tinged travelogue about Haiti. Therefore, the stories he reproduces are midway between fact and fictionMany of these zombie stories, particularly those dating back to the 1900s and before, are now extremely scarce and increasingly expensive. Cornelia and the Pine Torch Mari Tascas,2020-08 Cornelia is nonverbal. But she has a voice.Cornelia is a misunderstood, underestimated nonverbal little girl who becomes orphaned at a young age and must fend for herself in the wilderness of her heart and mind. Just when she is about to give up all hope, she learns that her Mother, Grandmother and Great-Grandmother live on through The Pine Torch - a sacred flame tended to by Vestals thousands of years ago and passed down from generation to generation - placed in her hand as her mother takes her last breath. As she questions the value of embodying her voice, she is visited by three strangers, who secretly come in search of the mysterious, sacred flame: To use it, to hide it, to steal it away.The three visitors teach Cornelia lessons each in their own way.In her multi-generational, magical, and synesthetic journey through the depths of her own heart, Cornelia finds the power of her voice. A voice backed by her Mother's Mother's Mother - and the Motherlines of all time. Will Cornelia succumb to the doubts of others, snuffing her own flame? Or will she embrace the unknown and brave the dark, discovering the power of her own voice and matriarchal line?The namesake of the brand, The Pine Torch, this book was lovingly written by Mari Tascas when her youngest daughter was diagnosed with nonverbal autism, and is her third book. Her first book, Raising a Phoenix is also inspired by her son, Phoenix's journey with nonverbal autism.

Fashion Spaces Vésma Kontere McQuillan,2020-12-17 This book sets out to define fashion spaces as an emerging area of research within architectural writing. Social media has brought a new type of space into the world of fashion retail. When architecture and fashion meet in the creation of ephemeral spaces for the immediate presentation of new collections, for example, these temporary but real spaces are brought into the realm of the everlasting digital space as they are shared and re-shared on platforms like Instagram. Fashion spaces can best be defined, then, as co-created, ever changing and prevailing metaspaces where the dialogue amongst designers, consumers and industry leaders continues well after the real space has vanished. Can these fashion spaces have a bigger impact on consumers than real-time experience of space? How may the dialogues developing within and as result of fashion spaces influence physical retail design? Can designers use fashion spaces as sites for new cultural production? These are but some of the questions tackled by Fashion Spaces: A Theoretical View. The book is created via a practice-oriented approach to academic teaching and research, through the collaboration of academics, students and the retail industry. Following an introductory essay by professor Vésma Kontere McQuillan and assistant professor Kjeld Hansen, which tackles the problematics of research in the field and presents a conceptual model for further research, seven case studies developed by students of the retail design program at the School of Arts, Design, and Media at Kristiania University College explore possible applications of this model. Hua-Yen Buddhism Francis H. Cook,2010-11 Hua-yen is regarded as the highest form of Buddhism by most modern Japanese and Chinese scholars. This book is a description and analysis of the Chinese form of Buddhism called Hua-yen (or Hwa-yea), Flower Ornament, based largely on one of the more systematic treatises of its third patriarch. Hua-yen Buddhism strongly resembles Whitehead's process philosophy, and has strong implications for modern philosophy and religion. Hua-yen Buddhism explores the philosophical system of Hua-yen in greater detail than does Garma C.C. Chang's The Buddhist Teaching of Totality (Penn State, 1971). An additional value is the development of the questions of ethics and history. Thus, Professor Cook presents a valuable sequel to Professor Chang's pioneering work. The Flower Ornament School was developed in China in the late 7th and early 8th centuries as an innovative interpretation of Indian Buddhist doctrines in the light of indigenous Chinese presuppositions, chiefly Taoist. Hua-yen is a cosmic ecology, which views all existence as an organic unity, so it has an obvious appeal to the modern individual, both students and layman.

I'm Never Going to Financially Recover from This Mari Tascas,2020-05 Let's Journey Through Motherhood in 2020, in pictures:As a mom of four kids, three with special needs, Mari has personified her Dead Inside But Caffeinated journey down the motherhood-equivalent of the River Styx via her avatar, Ma-DAMN Skeleton, who travels into its bowels with her children clinging to her relentlessly. This collection of sketch cartoons, from the heart of her brand, The Pine Torch, is a selection of memes that rivals only texts you'd send your closest girlfriends while on the toilet. Join Ma-DAMN Skeleton on her dark but redeeming journey in an amalgamation of biting, apocalyptic humor, mom-centric, hilarious imagery, unabashed truth-telling, and a nod to the parallel universe we have collectively entered in 2020, when Tiger King, face masks, toilet paper shortages, a global pandemic, (alongwith the regular, everyday surrealism of motherhood) combine to form volatile motherhood napalm

Raising a Phoenix Mari Tascas,2019-12-14 While his friends cheep, squawk or coo roo-c'too-coo, Phoenix communicates in the way that comes naturally to him: flapping and flapping and letting out a mysterious caw. An old woman tricks Phoenix into a life of safety and protection in a rickety cage, repeating after her like Parrot, in exchange for his freedom and ability to fly. Phoenix begins to wilt, losing the colorful plumes and happy flapping that make him so unique. Will Phoenix be doomed to rust away in a cage, or will he fly free, like the mystical, magnificent bird he is? Raising a Phoenix explores nonverbal autism with a lovable, brave character who overcomes limitations others impose upon him.

Adventures in Arabia William B. Seabrook, 2006-11-01 Illustrated with drawings and photographs, this travelogue of William Seabrook contains his reminiscences among several Middle Eastern cultures. As a writer and would-be traveler, Seabrook was particularly drawn to the Middle East, the Arabia of his book, an area not always safe for non-Muslims to travel in his day. Written with all the voice and presence of an adventurer, he narrates his time with the Bedouins, the Druses, Dervishes, and Yezidees. Always with a penchant for the unusual, he chronicles the exotic and unexpected during his exciting journey; the golden calf among the Druses and the devil worship of the Yezidees make fine examples. As a period piece and a snapshot of early twentieth-century Arabic culture, this travel book still has a draw for those interested in the Middle East.
