Restoring the Earth - The next decade Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations , 2020-10-28 This Unasylva issue aims at showcasing forest and landscape restoration (FLR) opportunities and recent developments that have the power to upscale restoration, in order to achieving the Bonn Challenge pledge and other national and international commitments (Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), the Convention for Biological Diversity (CBD) Post-2020 Agenda, the United Nations Convention to Combat Desertification (UNCCD) Land Degradation Neutrality, Paris Agreement under the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC)) and addressing the needs of the UN Decade 2021-2030 on Ecosystem Restoration. Border Ecology Ila Nicole Sheren, 2023-03-10 This book analyzes how contemporary visual art can visualize environmental crisis. It draws on Karen Barad's method of "agential realism," which understands disparate factors as working together and “entangled.” Through an analysis of digital eco art, the book shows how the entwining of new materialist and decolonized approaches accounts for the nonhuman factors shaping ecological crises while understanding that a purely object-driven approach misses the histories of human inequality and subjugation encoded in the environment. The resulting synthesis is what the author terms a border ecology, an approach to eco art from its margins, gaps, and liminal zones, deliberately evoking the idea of an ecotone. This book is suitable for scholarly audiences within art history, criticism and practice, but also across disciplines such as the environmental humanities, media studies, border studies and literary eco-criticism.

Use of Remote Sensing to Estimate Paddy Area and Production Lea Rotairo, Anna Christine

Durante, Pamela Lapitan, Lakshman Nagraj

Rao, 2019-04-01 A substantial portion of the world's rice is produced and consumed in the Asia and Pacific region. As much of the region's population depends on rice farming for consumption and livelihood, the demand for good quality statistics remains essential for effective policy formulation. Recent advances in remote sensing serve as a viable alternative to traditional methods of compiling agricultural statistics by responding to the emerging data requirements and overall needs of modern agriculture, especially for staple commodities such as rice. This publication outlines the procedures, methods and tools developed for generating statistics on paddy rice area and production using remote sensing and GIS techniques. It is intended to encourage and assist national statistical systems in piloting and adopting satellite-based techniques as an alternative to existing data collection methods, while enabling other interested readers to comprehend whether the adoption of these methodologies can improve the quality and timeliness of agricultural statistics. The handbook also serves as a complement to a massive online open course developed by ADB for crop area estimation.

The Oxford Handbook of Cinematic Listening Carlo

Cenciarelli, 2021 The Oxford Handbook of Cinematic Listening explores the intersection between the history of listening and the history of the moving image. Featuring established and emergent scholars from musicology, film studies, and literary studies, ethnomusicology and sound studies, popular music, sociology, media and communications, and psychology, this Handbook offers a wide range of case studies and methodological perspectives on the archaeologies, aesthetics, and extensions of cinematic listening. Chapters are structured around six themes: Part I (Genealogies and Beginnings) considers film sound in light of pre-existing genres such as opera and shadow theatre, and explores changes in listening taking place at critical junctures in the early history of cinema. Part II (Locations and Relocations) focuses on specific venues and presentational practices (from roadshow movies to and contemporary live-score screenings). Part III (Representations and Representations) zooms into the formal properties of specific films, analysing representations of listening on screen as well as on the role of sound as a representational surplus. Part IV (The Listening Body) focuses on cinematic sound as a powerful and sensual stimulus that has the power to engage the full body sensorium. Part V (Listening again) discusses a range of ways in which film sound is encountered and reinterpreted outside the cinema, through ancillary materials like songs and soundtrack albums, in experimental conditions, and in pedagogical contexts. Part VI (Between Media) compares the listening protocols of cinema with those of TV series and music video, promenade theatre and personalstereos, video games and Virtual Reality.

Dinosaurs Still Rule The Earth Valarie

White,2020-02-27 It's been said, If you want to make God laugh . . . tell him your plan. In this story, Rex, a tyrannosaurus, tells God his vision for the world - to him, idyllic and egocentric. He thinks of no one else but himself. As always, God considers his words and answers his prayers. God always answers prayers, but sometimes it's in a way that we cannot imagine and always for the greatest good. As Obi-Wan Kenobe said in Star Wars , Everything I've told you is true, from a certain point of view. This is a cautionary tale reminding the reader: Be careful what you wish for . . . you may get it!
