Northern Arizona University Lee C. Drickamer,Peter J. Runge,2011 Any university is composed of faculty, students, and staff. But these living components change over time and in varying degrees, while the campus buildings are more permanent, remaining for decades, a century, or longer. This book looks at the buildings that have graced the campus of Northern Arizona University from its opening in 1898 to the present. The school began with a single building, Old Main, and it was joined by five other structures prior to World War I. In the following decades the campus remained relatively small, expanding to approximately twenty-five structures by the late 1950s. During the tenure of President J. Lawrence Walkup (1957Ð1979), the university effectively doubled in size, spreading southward and adding more than forty buildings, including an entire south campus academic center. Since 1979 the campus has witnessed the addition of more than thirty structures, most as infill within the existing campus layout. Arranged chronologically, this extensively illustrated volume briefly describes the history of every building that has been a part of the universityÕs physical layout. The authors describe various structural aspects of each building and provide entertaining and informative anecdotes about events and people associated with the structures. By combing the universityÕs archives, Drickamer and Runge have turned up photographs of each building as it looked shortly after construction and at present, providing a fascinating visual time lapse. With more than two hundred images of campus buildings, many of them never before published, Northern Arizona University: Buildings as History provides a wonderful pictorial chronicle of the campus that will interest architectural historians as well as all those who have called NAU home.

The world in a sea Simone Azzopardi,Dominique Avon,Nicholas Joseph Doublet,Carlos Veci Lavín,Massimo de Leonardis,Roberto Regoli,Paolo Valvo,2024-02-26 The Mediterranean, both a sea and a theatre, has served throughout history as a fundamental crossroads for the political-religious dynamics and international tensions that characterize the various worlds, east and west, south and north, that meet in this basin. Starting from these premises, the present work examines - within a chronological span that goes from the conclusion of the Second World War to the end of Pius XII’s pontificate - the contribution offered by the Holy See and by Catholics from different national contexts in deciphering the role of the Mediterranean Sea within the wider global context. As such, it constitutes a reflection on this geographical space with its peculiar cultural, economic, political, and religious realities by highlighting the role played by the Mediterranean in the elaboration of visions and projects of civilization. This work is the fruit of a wider research programme called Occidentes - Horizons and projects of civilization in the Church of Pius XII. It brings together the work of seven historians from different European Universities.

Another Story from Another Christmas Giovanna Valvo,2018-11-15 It's Christmas time and Rafael Ignazio meets Mr. Alonso, a plump white bunny that his great-grandmother brought home under very specific recommendations. An enormous ice crystal crosses the sky and instantly, the child commits to make Mr. Alonso the center of attention on the festivities ... but in his own way (very different from that of his grandmother). Every child in the village who observes the enormous ice crystal, is able to turn opportunities or difficulties into wonderful ideas, thus celebrating the most special of Christmas, as it will be organized by the children and completely changes all the schemes, giving adults a great lesson in love, faith and hope in humanity.This children's story is inspired by today's children, who more than children, grandchildren, nephews or students, are our teachers and deserve changes in every social structure so that the world is adapted to them and not the other way around, since they are children bearers of an energy and an innate wisdom that come to remind us adults how it is that we live in light. enjoy this story in family, since in each page there are parables where adults and children can extract valuable lessons. This work has been illustrated taking care of the details and seeking to provide quality and art to our beloved children, a modern reading in its content and characters, but with the quality and extent of the great classics.Human and pedagogical values: * Stimulates the imagination. * Encourages reading comprehension.* Encourages children on ecological practices.* Sows values such as respect and empathy.* Love and sensitivity for animals.* Exemplifies the conscious and respectful upbringing.* Encourages the amplitude of criteria and tolerance.* Encourages the amplitude of vocabulary.* Stimulates the appreciation of art, offering handmade and realistic illustrations.Format: Soft cover. In this volume, papers from two new sessions, sessions IV and VII, entitled New Approaches, were prepared for devices and systems developed according to new ideas. Twenty-one papers in these two sessions were presented in five Forums (3, 4, 7, 8, and 9). Session VI was provided to deal with heart transplantation, which is now closely related to both ventricular assist systems (VAS) and the total artificial heart (TAH).
