Improving the Quality of Care in Nursing Homes Institute of Medicine,Committee on Nursing Home Regulation,1986-02-01 As more people live longer, the need for quality long-term care for the elderly will increase dramatically. This volume examines the current system of nursing home regulations, and proposes an overhaul to better provide for those confined to such facilities. It determines the need for regulations, and concludes that the present regulatory system is inadequate, stating that what is needed is not more regulation, but better regulation. This long-anticipated study provides a wealth of useful background information, in-depth study, and discussion for nursing home administrators, students, and teachers in the health care field; professionals involved in caring for the elderly; and geriatric specialists.

Nursing Homes John Dicken,2011-04 Since 2007, attention has been focused on nursing home ownership by private investment (PI) firms. Nursing home providers are required to disclose parties with an ownership or control interest in order to participate in Medicare or Medicaid. The Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS) maintains ownership and chain data in its Provider Enrollment, Chain, and Ownership System (PECOS). This report examined: (1) the extent of PI nursing home ownership and firms' involvement in homes' operations; (2) whether PECOS reflects PI ownership; and (3) how states use ownership data for oversight. Includes recommendations. Charts and tables. A print on demand publication.

Poorly Performing Nursing Homes John E. Dicken,2010-08 The Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Serv. (CMS) established the Special Focus Facility (SFF) Program to help address poor nursing home performance. States select a subset of homes as SFFs from a list of the 15 poorest performing homes in each state. States survey SFFs twice as frequently as other homes and there are more robust enforcement, including termination, for SFFs that fail to improve within about 18 months. This report: (1) determined the factors states consider in selecting SFFs and how SFFs differed from other nursing homes; (2) evaluated CMS regional office and state adherence to program guidance and the program's impact on homes' performance; and (3) identified other strategies that were used to improve poorly performing homes.

Nursing Staff in Hospitals and Nursing Homes Institute of Medicine,Committee on the Adequacy of Nursing Staff in Hospitals and Nursing Homes,1996-03-27 Hospitals and nursing homes are responding to changes in the health care system by modifying staffing levels and the mix of nursing personnel. But do these changes endanger the quality of patient care? Do nursing staff suffer increased rates of injury, illness, or stress because of changing workplace demands? These questions are addressed in Nursing Staff in Hospitals and Nursing Homes, a thorough and authoritative look at today's health care system that also takes a long-term view of staffing needs for nursing as the nation moves into the next century. The committee draws fundamental conclusions about the evolving role of nurses in hospitals and nursing homes and presents recommendations about staffing decisions, nursing training, measurement of quality, reimbursement, and other areas. The volume also discusses work-related injuries, violence toward and abuse of nursing staffs, and stress among nursing personnel—and examines whether these problems are related to staffing levels. Included is a readable overview of the underlying trends in health care that have given rise to urgent questions about nurse staffing: population changes, budget pressures, and the introduction of new technologies. Nursing Staff in Hospitals and Nursing Homes provides a straightforward examination of complex and sensitive issues surround the role and value of nursing on our health care system.

Nursing Homes John E. Dicken,2010-05 Under contract with the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS), states conduct surveys at nursing homes to help ensure compliance with federal quality standards. Over the past decade, there have been reports on inconsistencies in states' assessment of nursing homes' quality of care, including understatement -- that is, when state surveys fail to cite serious deficiencies or cite them at too low a level. In 2008, there was a report that 9 states had high and 10 had low understatement based on CMS data for FY 2002 through 2007. This report examines the effect on nursing home deficiency understatement of CMS's survey process, workforce shortages and training, supervisory reviews of surveys, and state agency practices.
