Training Bra J. W. McKenna, 2012-04-01 Marti Andrews loved the new bra & panty set she had bought from the strange, little man at the Manhattan boutique - they fit her perfectly! They also made her feel sexier, more alive, if that was possible. Even her handsome but very married boss, Steve Harris, noticed! Soon she had to buy more bras, even though they were expensive. The more she wore them, the better she felt. But they had a dark side, she came to realize - they urged her to take risks, like trying to seduce her boss. And she found she enjoyed having her breasts and bottom slapped! What was up with her lately? The tiny shop was soon besieged with customers, eager to purchase the bras and panties - the women found they couldn't help themselves. Marti quickly began to suspect something else was happening - but could she escape her fate and return to her dull, ordinary life? Did she even want to?

Uplift Jane Farrell-Beck, Colleen Gau, 2002-10-22 Over the years the bra has been stereotyped as an object of seduction, glamour, and even oppression. In Uplift: A History of the Bra in America Jane Farrell-Beck and Colleen Gau use this item of clothing to gauge the social history of women and to understand the business history of fashion. Viewing fashion as a means to entertainment, self-creation, and everyday art, the authors illuminate the effect the brassiere has had on women's lives—their style, health, and economic opportunity. Rich in examples from advertising, movies, and other areas of popular culture, Uplift moves beyond featherbones and fiberfill to provide a sense of the dynamic relationship of the bra to wider issues in society.

Tyranny of the Bra Fred Harding, 2019-07-30 When in the 19th century, women of all classes began to wear stays or tight-fitting corsets with their breast binding characteristics, doctors like James Nooth, surgeon to the Duke of Kent and a physician suspected that such female attire were in some way the cause of the breast cancer cases he was treating, but did not know why. Fast forward to 1991, and professor of Epidemiology Dimitrios Trichopoulos of the Harvard School of Public Health, Boston, Massachusetts. Regarded by many as a giant among giants in the field of epidemiology, he published a major study in the European Journal of Cancer which showed that premenopausal women who did not wear bras had half the risk of breast cancer compared with those women of their age who were bra users. The leading authority in the USA, the American Cancer Society (ACS) described by The Chronicle of Philanthropy in 1992 was more interested in accumulating wealth than in saving lives buried the Harvard study behind a cloak of secrecy. Then in 1995 the ACS had a rude awakening. It received a preview of a study by anthropologists, Sidney Singer and Soma Grismaijer, who had carried out a study which revealed that women who wear bras over 12 hours daily have a dramatically increased risk of developing breast cancer compared to bra-free women and those who wear bras 24/7 have more than 100 times the chance of developing breast cancer. Prewarned, when Singer/Grismaijer published their study in a book Dressed to Kill, the powerful media control and public relations resources of the ACS ensured that the study would be stopped in its tracks. For decades the study was ridiculed but the anthropologists stuck to their guns. Their study just would not go away and something had to be done to quash the myth or risk financial disaster if it was proven true. By 2014 the charity had accumulated $870 million in funding. Dr. Epstein, chairman of the Cancer Prevention Coalition, wrote that the ACS is the tail that wags the dog of the policies and priorities of the National Cancer Institute (NCI), and the society called upon their government funded buddy to come to the rescue. In 2014, the NCI financed its own study in September 2014, which was conducted by the Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center in Seattle, an organisation that receives millions of dollars in funding from the government agency. The Press Release from Fred Hutch declared that Bras Cause Breast Cancer? No support for that claim, Fred Hutch study finds. So that was that - or was it? Enter me! In 2004, a dear friend of the family, Gillian Wood, died of breast cancer, and I was determined to find out why. Consequently, I studied breast cancer in depth which culminated in the publication of a book in 2005 and revamped version in 2007. Although, I identified the growing evidence that environmental carcinogens was a major factor in breast carcinogenesis, I failed to answer my original question, why Gill had got the disease. A major piece of the jigsaw was missing. Then several years later, I learned that she had worn a bra 24/7, day and night. It was a bolt from the blue. From that day on I proceeded an intensive period of research and to my amazement, I found nine independent studies which confirmed the link between wearing bras and breast cancer. Then, in 2016, I read an article in an English newspaper with the headline, Your bra could kill you - and other breast cancer myths busted. Upon reading the article which focused on the 2014 Fred Hutch study, which from my own studies was seriously flawed. I was so incensed that I decided to rebut the article and write a new book, this one, The Tyranny of the Bra: The New Evidence in Ten Studies. What you will read in my book, the 10th study, will both shock you and astound you. The evidence presented is meticulous in detail and indisputable. Ditching your bra or reducing the time you wear one WILL GREATLY REDUCE YOUR RISK OF BREAST CANCER.

Unleash the Girls Lisa Z. Lindahl,2019-09-10 Named a Kirkus "Best Books of 2022" "... the author's narrative is as much an inspiring business memoir as it is an absorbing chronicle of a surprisingly significant piece of sports clothing. An engrossing account of the entrepreneur--and the bra--that changed women's sports." --Kirkus Reviews With cogent reflections on American cultural history and the shifts that laid the groundwork for women's liberation, Lindahl weaves a narrative that is both intimate and topical....[A]n inspiring narrative about changing the world through fearless innovation. --Publisher's Weekly, BookLife Prize The 1970s saw women coming into their own, working hard to create new roles at home and in sports, culture, politics, and business. It was also the start of the "fitness revolution." At this unique intersection of feminism and athleticism, Lisa Lindahl's game-changing entrepreneurial journey began. She invented the first sports bra, the "Jogbra," in 1977. It was the right product at the right time, throwing Lisa into a high-stakes world of business and power--a world for which she was not fully prepared. Unleash the Girls is the improbable story of a young artist with a disability who used her powers of creativity to solve a vexing problem and ended up leveling the playing field for girls and women across the globe--literally, unleashing the girls. Her invention would become a feminist icon and the company she founded would change an industry. But amid the success, Lisa continued to search for meaning and the true nature of power and beauty. This is the untold story of the invention of the sports bra and how it changed the world for girls and women...and, along the way, changed Lisa, too. The sports bra was and is more than a piece of sporting equipment, it has become a symbol and a vehicle for women and girls to propel themselves forward without inhibition towards the future that they are creating. --Brandi Chastain, American retired soccer player, two-time FIFA Women's World Cup champion, two-time Olympic gold-medalist, coach, and sports broadcaster Dressed to Kill, Second Edition Sydney Ross Singer,Soma Grismaijer,2018 Updated edition of: Dressed to kill: the link between breast cancer and bras. Avery Pub. Group, 1995.

Exposed Colleen Hill,2014 Exposed: a history of lingerie traces developments in intimate apparel from the eighteenth century to the present. There are two types of lingerie, hard and soft. Hard lingerie includes corsets, bustles, and structured bras, while soft lingerie consists of unstructured garments, such as slips, nightgowns, and panties. Exposed begins with a sky blue corset and ends with a sapphire blue bra and panty set from luxury label La Perla...--from exhibition flyer.

Parenting Teens with Love & Logic Foster Cline,Jim Fay,1992 Even those who wait at home are eager to hear all about kindergarten. The animals are in a tizzy; Tommy is missing. The dog says Tommy is gone to a place called kindergarten. ?Where is kindergarten? they exclaim. ?What will happen to Tommy there? Will he ever come back?!! Eventually Tommy bursts into the barn with tales of all he learned in kindergarten. A charming and tender story that's sure to reassure any child heading to kindergarten.
