Jeron Ashford, Jeron Ashford Frame

The Christmas Candle Richard Paul Evans,2007-10-02 On his way home for Christmas, Thomas needs a light for his lantern. He stops in an old candlemaker's shop and is dismissive of all of the old man's intricate and beautiful candles, buying an inexpensive one. However, as he continues his journey, this simple candle takes on some unbelievable power. By the light of the candle, he mistakes a beggar woman for his mother and gives her his cloak and he thinks a man lying in the streets with no place to go is his brother and gives everything he has to put him in an inn for the night. Though he loses all his material items, he finally arrives home with a new found sense of what family can be.

Christmas Candle Angela Kay Austin,2015-12-21 Crystal Waters was the only one among the three sisters who believed in the magic of their family. The magic of their ancestors. Their grandmother. Their mother. However, she believed and she was determined to discover if a little magic at Christmas could bring her and her sisters the love they all have been wanting. Maurice Watts returned to Memphis to care for his ailing mother. Nothing else mattered. When he walked into the little shop in the middle of Midtown Memphis, he never thought the woman on the other side of the door would change his life. Who doesn't want a little magic at the holidays?

Christmas Candles Elsie Hobart Carter,2015-06-26 Excerpt from Christmas Candles: Plays for Boys and Girls These little plays were written for the classes and clubs of a small Sunday-school, where the Christmas celebration consisted of a play to introduce Santa Claus and a Christmas-tree. They are equally suitable for children at home or in day schools, and they have been so used. In most of the plays children greatly enjoy playing the adult parts and do good work in them. But several of the adult roles call for adult players, because a deeper appreciation of the feeling contained in the story is required than can be given by girls in their teens. Such parts are the Babushka, the Mother in The Christ-Candle, and the Mother in Toinette. Partly for the same reason, a man should be chosen for the Abbot in The Christmas Monks, but also his presence will lend dignity, and much greater orderliness to rehearsals in a play with a large cast. The last two plays, adapted from stories by well-known writers, Minty-Malviny's Santa Claus and The Hundred, were not especially intended for children, but as parlor plays for home production. These two throw heavier work upon a single child than any of the other plays, but though they were made with special children in view, it would not be difficult to find, in any group of children, a little girl who could play Minty or Tibbie as well as those for whom the parts were first made.
