Advances in Cryogenic Engineering K. D. Timmerhaus, 2013-03-08 The National Bureau of Standards Boulder Laboratories at Boulder, Colorado once again served as the host for the 1972 Cryogenic Engineering Conference. For the Cryogenic Engineering Conference it was like coming home, for it was at the NBS Boulder Laboratories that the Cryogenic Engineering Conference was first conceived and held in 1954 in connection with the dedication of the NBS Boulder Laboratories by President Dwight D. Eisenhower. The Cryogenic Engineering Conference is grateful for the continuing support that the National Bureau of Standards has given over the years, and which was expanded on July 1, 1971 when the NBS Boulder Laboratories assumed the secretariat function of the Conference from the National Academy of Sciences. Because of common interests in heat transfer, the 1972 Cryogenic Engineering Conference worked with the 13th National Heat Transfer Conference to develop a joint program in heat transfer. A majority of the papers presented in this cooperative effort are included in Volume 18 of the Advances in Cryogenic Engineering through the kind permission of the 13th National Heat Transfer Conference and are acknowledged accordingly.

Desire in Chromatic Harmony Kenneth M. Smith, 2020 Of the many composers in the Western classical tradition who celebrated the marriage between psyche and sound, those explored in this book followed the lines diverging from Wagner in philosophizing the nature of desire in music. This book offers two new theories of tonal functionality in the music of the first half of the twentieth century that seek to explain its psychological complexities. First, the book further develops Riemann's three diatonic chord functions, extending them to account from chromatic chord progression and substitution. The three functions (Tonic, Subdominant, Dominant) are compared to Jacques Lacan's twin-concepts of metaphor and metonymy which drive the human desiring apparatus. Second, the book develops a technique for analysing the drives that pull chromatic music in multiple directions simultaneously, creating a libidinal surface that mirrors the tensions of the psyche found in Schopenhauer, Freud and post-Freudians-Lacan, Lyotard, and Deleuze. The harmonic models are tested in psychologically challenging pieces of music by post-Wagnerian composers. From the obsession with death and mourning in Josef Suk's Asrael Symphony to an exploration of perversion in Richard Strauss's Elektra; from the post-Kantian transcendentalism of Charles Ives' Concord Sonata to the Accelerationism of Scriabin's late piano works; from the Sufi mysticism of Szymanowski's Song of the Night to the failed fantasy of the American dream in Aaron Copland's The Tender Land, the book cuts a path through the dense forests of chromatic complexity, and digs deep into the psychological make-up of post-Wagnerian psychodynamic music--
