Pack Your Luggage but Leave Your Baggage Ethel Mae,2019-10-29 To get through life, you must leave your baggage behind. Ethel Mae, a survivor of mental, physical, and sexual abuse, drives that point home in this inspiring guide to leaving guilt, shame, fear, low self-esteem, and more in the rearview mirror. She shares parts of her personal story and makes observations on life so you can: appreciate your strengths and love yourself; confront and overcome whatever is holding you back and bothering you; take responsibility for your future; and adjust your attitude to achieve success; The author also highlights the power of words—and why it's important to use them wisely—as well as why it's important to forgive others and set yourself free. To pay attention to the people you surround yourself with, who influences you, basically put “who claps when you win”. She also explains that it's important to look at life as a cruise where you enjoy the journey instead of being so fixated and anxious on a destination. Overcome negative thoughts and behavior patterns, reflect on what you must do moving forward, and take meaningful steps to make the changes within yourself to achieve your dreams with the guidance in this book.

The Shooting Star Shivya Nath,2018-09-14 Shivya Nath quit her corporate job at age twenty-three to travel the world. She gave up her home and the need for a permanent address, sold most of her possessions and embarked on a nomadic journey that has taken her everywhere from remote Himalayan villages to the Amazon rainforests of Ecuador. Along the way, she lived with an indigenous Mayan community in Guatemala, hiked alone in the Ecuadorian Andes, got mugged in Costa Rica, swam across the border from Costa Rica to Panama, slept under a meteor shower in the cracked salt desert of Gujarat and learnt to conquer her deepest fears. With its vivid descriptions, cinematic landscapes, moving encounters and uplifting adventures, The Shooting Star is a travel memoir that maps not just the world but the human spirit.
