Entrepreneurs Grow at Warp Speed Steve Pavlina,2015-11-30 The world's #1 personal development blogger shares his best business and personal growth insights for the beginning entrepreneur. In Entrepreneurs Grow at Warp Speed, bestselling author Steve Pavlina shares his personal tales and insights about the world of entrepreneurship. With over 100 pages worth of business lessons, readers will learn the essentials of being an entrepreneur, overcoming indecision, saying no to idiots, doing your best work, tackling monster projects, and working on your personal growth. Includes a bonus offer inside to receive Steve Pavlina's newest book for entrepreneurs, The Passive Income Book for free. CONTENTS Introduction 1: Grow Smarter 2: Stop Working with Idiots 3: Do Your Best Work 4: Learn to Say No 5: Consider Abandoning Deadlines 6: Tackling the Monster Projects 7: The Trap of Indecision 8: Learn the Pain of Perfectionism 9: Stop Being a Technology Dunce 10: Overcome Limited Thinking 11: Learn to Spend Wisely 12: Understand Human Behavior 13: Take Command of Your Life 14: Get Paid to Grow 15: Explore Your Strengths Conclusion PREVIEW One reason I started my own business in my early 20s is that I believed it would help me grow faster as a human being. I figured I'd learn more valuable skills, tackle more challenges, and enjoy a richer life as an entrepreneur than I would as someone else's employee. That turned out to be one of the best decisions of my life. The happiest and most successful business owners I know are almost invariably more motivated by the personal growth aspects of business than the financial aspects. Many of them love the challenge, and nothing motivates them so much as turning an idea into reality. The money they earn in business helps to fuel their personal growth interests. In the years I've been blogging, hundreds of readers (possibly thousands by now) have told me they quit their jobs and started their own businesses. That doesn't surprise me because entrepreneurship can provide many growth lessons and opportunities that are difficult to experience any other way. When you're an entrepreneur, you'll often feel like you're learning and growing at warp speed. Ground your growth in the real world Many personal growth concepts sound intriguing, but do they work in the real world? Without actual testing, it's impossible to know which ideas have merit. Try applying those ideas to a real business, and see how they perform. This cuts through the B.S. and helps you identify the gems. You'll discover that some ideas which sound a bit airy fairy actually work well in business, while other ideas that seem smart and logical are too inflexible to be useful in the uncontrolled chaos of the real world. Sometimes you'll observe results that evade a clear conclusion but which help you discover more subtleties. This will polish your thinking, such as by helping you recognize when the time is right to race ahead with optimism vs. when to put on your skeptics cap and think twice about a so-called opportunity. You may respect promising theories and ideas in the sanctuary of your own mind, but in business you'll learn to respect what works. You'll receive meaningful feedback to see how your ideas pan out. You always have numbers to look at, such as your sales and profits... or your losses and debts. In the pure space of ideas, there are no time limits. In business you'll learn to favor ideas that can be applied efficiently because time is your scarcest resource. You may love your daily 90-minute hot yoga classes (perhaps 2.5 hours including driving time and showering), but when you see opportunities passing you by while you're sweating it out at the studio, you'll surely feel some pressure to find a more efficient way to exercise. * * *

A House in Fez Suzanna Clarke,2009-12-01 The Medina -- the Old City -- of Fez is the best-preserved, medieval walled city in the world. Inside this vibrant Moroccan community, internet cafes and mobile phones coexist with a maze of donkey-trod alleyways, thousand-year-old sewer systems, and Arab-style houses, gorgeous with intricate, if often shabby, mosaic work. While vacationing in Morocco, Suzanna Clarke and her husband, Sandy, are inspired to buy a dilapidated, centuries-old riad in Fez with the aim of restoring it to its original splendor, using only traditional craftsmen and handmade materials. So begins a remarkable adventure that is bewildering, at times hilarious, and ultimately immensely rewarding. A House in Fez chronicles their meticulous restoration, but it is also a journey into Moroccan customs and lore and a window into the lives of its people as friendships blossom. When the riad is finally returned to its former glory, Suzanna finds she has not just restored an old house, but also her soul.

Tag-based Next Generation Sequencing Matthias Harbers,Guenter Kahl,2012-02-13 Tag-based approaches were originally designed to increase the throughput of capillary sequencing, where concatemers of short sequences were first used in expression profiling. New Next Generation Sequencing methods largely extended the use of tag-based approaches as the tag lengths perfectly match with the short read length of highly parallel sequencing reactions. Tag-based approaches will maintain their important role in life and biomedical science, because longer read lengths are often not required to obtain meaningful data for many applications. Whereas genome re-sequencing and de novo sequencing will benefit from ever more powerful sequencing methods, analytical applications can be performed by tag-based approaches, where the focus shifts from 'sequencing power' to better means of data analysis and visualization for common users. Today Next Generation Sequence data require powerful bioinformatics expertise that has to be converted into easy-to-use data analysis tools. The book's intention is to give an overview on recently developed tag-based approaches along with means of their data analysis together with introductions to Next-Generation Sequencing Methods, protocols and user guides to be an entry for scientists to tag-based approaches for Next Generation Sequencing.

101 Cartoons Joe McKeever,2014-04-01 FROM JOE MCKEEVER.... When I was five years old, my mother sat me down at the kitchen table with my little sister Carolyn, gave us pencil and paper, and said, Now draw! She was not attempting to teach us anything, but merely trying to get us out of the way while she did her housework. And, that's how I discovered that I love to draw. The next year, when I started to the first grade at Nauvoo (AL) Elementary School, the other children would gather around and watch me draw. To this day, I can outdraw any group of first-graders you will ever meet. For over forty years, while pastoring churches and living the life of a Baptist minister, I've drawn cartoons for religious publications, mostly within our Southern Baptist Convention. These days, and for the past decade or more, the Baptist Press website posts one of our drawings each weekday. (See them at www.bpnews.net/cartoons) Most of these cartoons have been featured on that website and in various publications. I am pleased we can present this collection of 101 of the most recent drawings. We send them forth with the prayer they will bring a smile to your heart and a lift to your spirit. In thy presence there is fullness of joy... (Psalm 16:11) JOE MCKEEVER New Orleans, Louisiana March 2014 Website: www.joemckeeper.com Email: joe@joemckeeper.com And, we're on Facebook!
