Soft Target III Conrad Jones, 2013-02-15 Review Conrad Jones's books should carry a Health Warning: Do not read in bed as constant page turning may cause severe sleep deprivation!!! I cannot put this author's novels down. --Bookland Reviews Product Description The third in the series, a dirty bomb is being flown across the Pacific at the same time as Britain is targeted with multiple terrorist bombs. The Holy city Jerusalem is under threat from a radioactive device. Multi-Million selling author Stephen Leather posted this review on Soft Target US Great fast-moving thriller, January 5, 2011 By Stephen Leather This was one of the first Kindle books that I read, and it's a corker, up to the standards of Andy McNab and Chris Ryan. Fast-paced, tight prose, it kept me hooked from start to finish. I'll definitely be reading more from this author. About the Author Conrad Jones, Biography. Conrad Jones is a 47 year old Author, who lives in Warrington, Cheshire. He worked in senior management at McDonalds Restaurants Ltd from 1989-2002. On March 23rd 1993 he was managing the Restaurant in Warrington's Bridge St when two Irish Republican Army bombs exploded directly outside the store, resulting in the death of two young boys and many casualties. Along with hundreds of other people there that day Conrad was deeply affected by the attack, which led to a long term interest in the motivation and mind set of terrorists. Later years turned his focus to tensions in the Middle East and beyond.

Soft Target Iii Conrad Jones, 2013-10 Four members of the Terrorist Taskforce are the subject of assassination attempts. A high profile MP is murdered and the police struggle to make a connection. The third in the series, a dirty bomb is being flown across the Pacific at the same time as Britain is targeted with multiple terrorist bombs. The Holy city Jerusalem is under threat from a radioactive device and there has to be a final showdown with mass murderer, Yasser Ahmed.

Soft Target Conrad Jones, 2009 ADVENTURE / THRILLER. Jerusalem is the final part of the trilogy, but not the last of the Tank books. There are a minimum of three left to come ! The plot begins with a sustained attack on security service personnel on both sides of the Atlantic. A synchronised three prong attack with radioactive dispersal devices, or dirty bombs, against New York, Liverpool and of course the holy city of Jerusalem. The nefarious Yasser Ahmed returns to haunt Tank.

Soft Target Hardening Jennifer Hesterman, 2014-12-18 Terrorist attacks occur daily and are increasingly being aimed at civilian populations around the world. Battlefield lines have been redrawn to include churches, schools, hospitals, and malls. This breach of moral boundary is shocking and invokes fear—two primary goals of terrorism. Although there is an increase in soft target activity—or attacks on places of worship, study, and leisure—there is hesitation to explore such susceptibility in the United States. Soft Target Hardening: Protecting People from Attack starts the national dialogue by providing case studies, best practices, and methodologies for identifying soft target vulnerabilities and reducing risk in the US. Offering deterrence and mitigation techniques from more than 275 sources, this comprehensive book: Explores US cultural nuances contributing to the country turning a psychological blind eye toward soft target threats Assesses the attractiveness of soft target threats presented by foreign and domestic terror groups and drug trafficking organizations Analyzes the unique vulnerabilities of churches, schools, hospitals, malls, sporting and recreational events, and other soft targets Gives an overview of soft target hardening tactics from global hotspots, including first-person accounts and photographs Introduces the concept of effects-based hardening, derived from the military model of effects-based operations Discusses emerging soft target challenges such as insider threats, kidnapping, and use of human shields Evaluates the likelihood of the use of weapons of mass destruction against civilian-centric venues Soft Target Hardening: Protecting People from Attack is a must read for those who secure, own, and operate soft target facilities, and for citizens who want to protect themselves and their families from attack.

Soft Target Ii Conrad Jones, 2013-10 Tank begins on the banks of the River Dee in the beautiful Roman built city of Chester. An end of term university party is being held on a cruise boat, but the boat is the target of a huge terrorist attack, resulting in the death of hundreds of students. The attacks are laid firmly at the door of Islamic extremists however all is not what it seems. The attack was planned to cover the kidnapping of a Saudi Princess, in an attempt to force up the price of crude oil. Tank and the Terrorist Task Force are called in to lead the investigation. During the plot they stumble over the suspected whereabouts of their Nemesis Yasser Ahmed, and their two worlds collide with devastating results.

A Soft Target & the Rogue Technology G. F. N. Vagabond, 2015-12-30 After the blasts in American Embassies on 8/7, the unknown group tries to frame Victor. After 9/11, the psychopaths appear inflated. An unknown group leaves Victor as dead in Tanzania a few months after 9/11. Radioactivity was found in his lungs. Victor is not allowed to sleep. Breathing is made difficult for him at any time, place by the technology. By these torture techniques, Frankie and her associates were expressing their hate on westerners. But, Frankie is not of any terror group. An unknown group from different countries uses rogue satellites, radioactive wastes from the atmosphere, atmospheric conditions, electromagnetic radiation, hazardous gases. The area around Victor is a created 'fields' which the psychopaths term 'coffin'. He subjected to 'mind altering' and threatened to do as wanted by the rogues, criminals. The group wanted to make sure that Victor is unemployed so that he joins the group with sinister motives. The 'Rogue Technology' is applied on him. He is pursued in Gulf, Africa and India. The strategy was to make the man loose his belief, his work, in his profession, income, health and to distance him from friends, relatives. This strategy is used by an unknown group. They were in a position to command and control terrorists. The technology used was not available to terrorists but could be used abundantly by tyrants, despots, unknown groups. An apparent female spy knew beforehand, about the hiding place of Saddam Hussein, Gaddafi's crimes, blasts in the American embassy in Nairobi, terrorist plans even in 1994, scholarships granted to well known criminals used in terrorism. She fooled terrorists & other groups. She would talk to Victor using the 'Rogue Technology'. She was helplessly trying to defect but could be a vital link between members of an unknown group.

As thriller writers go this guy is right up at the top!! --Turf Book Reviews Having enjoyed the first book, I was keen to see if the author could produce another book to the same standard...and I wasn't disappointed. The depth of background information is educational and well researched, the story is gripping and the characters are believable and have depth. This is an action packed, fast paced story and I did little else whilst reading it - I couldn't bear to put it down. Congratulations to the author - can't wait for the next one. --Jo Hammond reviews Product Description An action thriller written by new author Conrad Jones. This is a page turning Terrorist Special Forces thriller and is number 1 on the kindle (War) listings. We found it a book we could not put down. Armed Deterrence U S Military,Department of Defense (Dod),John Bowman,2019-08 The continued rise of self-radicalized lone-wolf terrorist attacks and mass shootings by mentally unstable individuals presents significant security challenges for military personnel serving outside of DoD facilities and at geographically separated units that offer no security. The recent attack on a recruiting center in Chattanooga, TN highlights this concern and raises the question of whether arming additional military members is a prudent force protection measure to counter this emerging threat. The overall intent of this paper is to argue that arming select military members with an open carry firearms policy is a prudent force protection measure for Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC) detachments because it provides a visual deterrent against soft target attacks. Further, if perceptual deterrence should fail, an open carry firearms policy is most often the only viable means to stop (deny) an active shooter in order to safeguard the lives of military personnel. This paper uses a qualitative approach to argue that the benefits of arming ROTC Cadre with an open carry firearms policy outweigh the perceived risks of implementation. Presenting an in depth analysis of the postulated threat, the author synthesizes the problem by first examining current terrorist trends and active shooters events, to include their motivations. The paper then exposes the hazards affecting ROTC detachments due to their unique soft target nature. Four recommendations emerge from this paper, which provide several policy recommendations and considerations for full implementation. The first recommendation involves overhauling DoD Directive 5210.56 in order to address non-DoD owned or leased facilities. The second recommendation proposes that each DoD Component should draft measures to arm ROTC Cadre with an open carry firearms policy. The third recommendation suggests that further research is needed to determine which state(s) and local (university) laws enable or prevent implementation. Finally, the fourth recommendation advises that a Federal / DoD standardized identification card should be developed for DoD personnel that are engaged in security functions outside of DoD owned or leased facilities.This compilation includes a Diplomatic Security: State Department Should Better Manage Risks to Residences and Other Soft Targets Overseas Michael J. Courts, Thomas Costa, Joshua Akery, Amanda Bartine, Aniruddha Dasgupta, 2015-07-09 What GAO Found The Department of State (State) conducts a range of activities to assess risks to residences overseas. For instance, State tracks information on overseas residences in its property database, establishes threat levels at overseas posts, develops security standards for different types of residences and threat levels, and requires posts to periodically conduct residential security surveys. However, 17 of the 68 surveys for residences GAO reviewed were untimely or missing. Without up-to-date security surveys of all its overseas residences, State's ability to identify and address vulnerabilities or make informed decisions about where to allocate resources for security upgrades is limited. State has taken steps to update its residential security standards; however, these updates have not been timely, and the standards are difficult to use. According to State officials, updating residential security standards should take about 75 days, but all three updates since 2005 took more than 3 years each. State is making efforts to improve the timeliness of such updates in response to a prior GAO recommendation. In addition, while federal internal control standards state that policy standards should be clear and consistent to support good decision making, State's standards and other security-related guidance for residences have gaps and inconsistencies, complicating posts' efforts to determine and apply the appropriate security measures and potentially leaving some residences at risk. State addresses security vulnerabilities at residences by installing various upgrades intended to help residences meet security standards, but 38 of the 68 residences GAO reviewed did not meet all applicable standards. For example, 8 residences did not meet the standards for perimeter barriers. When residences do not and cannot meet all applicable security standards, posts are required to request exceptions, which identify steps the posts will take to mitigate vulnerabilities. However, State had an exception on file for only 1 of the 38 residences that did not meet all applicable standards. As a result, State lacks key information that could provide it with a clearer picture of security vulnerabilities at residences and enable it to make better risk management decisions. State manages risks to schools and other soft targets overseas in several ways, but its efforts may be constrained by limited awareness of relevant guidance and tools. In fiscal years 2010 through 2015, State awarded almost 400 grants in total for security upgrades at schools and other soft targets. While federal internal control standards call for timely communication of relevant information to staff responsible for program objectives, officials at most of the posts GAO visited were unaware of some guidance and tools for securing schools and other soft targets. As a result, State may not be fully leveraging existing programs and resources for addressing security needs at these facilities. Why GAO Did This Study Since the 1998 East Africa bombings, U.S. diplomatic personnel working overseas have faced increasing threats to their safety and security. State has built many new embassies and consulates since 1998 and enhanced security measures at others. Increased security at such facilities has raised concerns that residences, schools, and other places where U.S. diplomatic personnel and their families congregate may be viewed by terrorists as more attractive "soft targets." GAO was asked to review the security of residences and other soft targets overseas. GAO evaluated (1) how State assesses risks to U.S. diplomatic residences overseas; (2) the timeliness, clarity, and consistency of residential security standards; (3) how State addresses security vulnerabilities at residences; and (4) how State manages risks to other soft targets. GAO reviewed agency documents; met with officials in Washington, D.C.; and conducted fieldwork at a judgmental sample of seven higher-threat, higher-risk posts in four of State's six geographic regions. This is the public version of a sensitive but unclassified report issued in June 2015. What GAO Recommends GAO recommends that State, among other things, institute procedures to ensure residential security surveys are completed as required, clarify its standards and security-related guidance for residences, develop procedures to ensure residences either meet standards or have exceptions on file, and take steps to ensure posts are aware of existing guidance and tools regarding the security of schools and other soft targets. State concurred with all of GAO's recommendations.

Soft Target When a group of armed police in an elite unit turn maverick and start to rip off drug dealers at gunpoint, undercover cop Dan 'Spider' Shepherd is ordered to infiltrate the tight-knit team. Facing men with guns is nothing new for the former SAS trooper, but it's the first time he's had to investigate his own. As Shepherd finds himself in the firing line, he has to decide exactly where his loyalties lie. Cold Kill People-smuggling, counterfeit currency and attempted murder. It's all in a day's work for undercover cop Dan 'Spider' Shepherd. But what starts as a run-of-the mill investigation quickly turns into a matter of life and death when he uncovers a terrorist cell on a mission of death and destruction. With the clock ticking and the explosives primed, Shepherd and his colleagues realise that to avoid catastrophe, they have to be even more merciless than the terrorists. Hot Blood Now working for the Serious Organised Crime Agency, undercover cop Dan 'Spider' Shepherd is used to putting his life on the line. But when the man who once saved his life is kidnapped in the badlands of Iraq, thrown into a basement and threatened with execution, Shepherd has to decide whether his loyalties lie with his country, his career, or his friend.

An Emergency Plan That Could Save Thousands Norman Ende M.D.,2017-12-05 An Emergency Plan That Could Save Thousands By: Norman Ende M.D. The explosion of the atom bomb at Hiroshima and Nagasaki had a great significance to anyone in the military, nationally and worldwide. It not only ended the war; it directly affected those in uniform. When the bombs dropped, Norman Ende was a naval cadet in medical school, and his brother, Dr. Milton Ende, was a medical officer who had been ordered to the Pacific where they expected heavy casualties (1 million). The Ende brothers reported the first transplant of human umbilical cord blood to a patient with Leukemia in 1972. Since then, their research into cord blood transfusion has shown to significantly improve not only victims of irradiation but numerous diseases. In An Emergency Plan, Dr. Ende describes an essential plan, based on his research, to prepare to treat Americans in the event of a nuclear terrorist attack. But since a sudden change in FDA regulation in 2003, clinical trials involving human cord blood in the U.S. have been effectively stalled. As Dr. Ende outlines, not only is treatment research for disease hampered, but the U.S. remains unprepared in the event of nuclear attack. Currently no plan exists for mass casualties (10,000-100,000+) that can be activated.
