Sociolinguistic Variation and Acquisition in Two-Way Language Immersion

Rebecca Lurie Starr, 2016-11-01 This book investigates the acquisition of sociolinguistic knowledge in the early elementary school years of a Mandarin-English two-way immersion program in the United States. Using ethnographic observation and quantitative analysis of data, the author explores how input from teachers and classmates shapes students' language acquisition. The book considers the different sociolinguistic messages conveyed by teachers in their patterns of language use and the variety of dialects negotiated and represented. Using analysis of teacher speech, corrective feedback and student language use, the author brings together three analyses to form a more complete picture of how children respond to sociolinguistic variation within a two-way immersion program.

Valencia STINT 2009-2010 David Noyd, 2010-08-14 Libres para vivir....Free to live. Living this past year in Valencia, Venezuela, it was amazing to see the Lord work in the lives of students, my teammates, and myself. From extreme adventures to hanging out in the park to discipleship to weekly Bible study to welcome parties, and good-bye parties, to students growing in community and their desire to see God change their campus to a national conference to people receiving Christ for the first time to learning how to make caraotas con arepas to catching a glimpse of how God has worked in Venezuela the past eleven years to living life with students and watching them grow in their love for the Lord, it was an incredible year. I hope that you enjoy living these experiences vicariously through these weekly correspondences. Though such times fade into a memory, we can still rejoice in what the Lord has done and be excited about the eternal hope that we have in Him. -David Hamilton Noyd
