Multimedia Explorations in Urban Policy and Planning Leonie

Sandercock, Giovanni Attili, 2010-04-10 The book is a collection of essays exploring the potential of multimedia to enrich and transform the planning field. By multimedia the authors refer to a broad range of new information and communication technologies (from film and video to digital ethnography and the internet), which are opening up new possibilities in planning practices, processes, pedagogy and research. The authors document the ways in which these ICTs can expand the language of planning and the creativity of planners; can evoke the lived experience (the spirit, memories, desires) of our 21st century mongrel cities by engaging with stories and storytelling; and can democratise planning practices. The text is epistemologically radical, in presenting an argument for the importance of multiple languages (ways of knowing) in the planning field, and making the connection between this epistemology and the almost infinite potential of Multimedia to provide varied tools to accomplish this transformation, displacing the supremacy of the rational, linear and hierarchical with more open, playful and imaginative approaches. Each of the authors brings practical experience with different forms of Multimedia use and reflects on the different potentialities offered by Multimedia for critical intervention in urban and regional issues, and the power dynamics embedded in such interventions.

Nothing Is Impossible Geraldine Appel, 2016-01-21 This book is for anyone who needs a change from their current situation, whether abused or just unhappy with their current state of affairs. Believe 'Nothing is Impossible' and all bad times shall pass. Always be aware that you are not alone in your sorrows. There are many people throughout the world in a similar position. Also that there are many people out there which have come through the worst ever and are now living very rewarding lives. This I know from the motivational books I have read and from my 'Around the World' trip where I witnessed so much. Especially that people are the same wherever you go. They also have dreams and aspirations, as well as their own struggles in life and battle to find a way forward. I will use my passion and knowledge of architecture to depict the stages of building a house to become a home, in juxtaposition to build a new life or strengthen our existing wellbeing. Additionally, this will portray my account of how our attitude to life can be refined in a similar way... Highlighting there is a season for everything as well as a possibility to change your life and not others. Although inadvertently this will happen when you do change, for mutual respect will be born.

Visual Feast Robert Klanten, Anja Kouznetsova, 2017 We eat with our eyes. People love to stage and take photos of their food. Driven by Instagram and the advertising industry, bloggers, stylists, and photographers continually invent new ways of presenting food as both delectable and radical. Visual Feast presents work from this growing field. Sharing photos of food has become entrenched in our daily lives. Scintillating captures of coffee. Maps made from vegetables. The aesthetic aftermath of mealtime. These images can be readily found on social media, in magazine editorials, or transformed into infographics. Visual Feast reveals a world where food is a work of art and an edible eccentricity. It is a rich visual journey through nourishment, art form, and creative medium. Food photographers and stylists create innovative images that make mouths water, eyes widen, and nostrils inhale imagined scents. Quenching creative curiosities and satisfying even the keenest of artistic palettes, Visual Feast is a tome of inspiration for foodies, food bloggers, and discerning food stylists. -- Provided by publisher.

The Poetics of Cruising Jack Parlett, 2022-02-15 A groundbreaking new history of urban cruising through the lenses of urban poets The Poetics of Cruising explores the relationship between cruising, photography, and the visual in the work of leading poets, from Walt Whitman in the nineteenth century to Eileen Myles in the twenty-first. What is it that happens, asks Jack Parlett, and what is it that is sought, in this often transient moment of perception we call cruising, this perceptual arena where acts of looking between strangers are intensified and eroticized? Parlett believes that this moment is not only optical in nature but visual: a mode of looking that warrants comparison with the ways in which we behold still and moving images. Whether it's Whitman's fixation with daguerreotypes, Langston Hughes's hybrid photographic works, or Frank O'Hara's love of Hollywood movie stars, argues Parlett, the history of poets cruising abounds with this intermingling between the verbal and the visual, the passing and the fixed. To look at someone in the act of cruising, this history suggests, is to capture, consider, and aestheticize, amid the flux and instantaneity of urban time. But it is also to reveal the ambivalence at the heart of this erotic search, where power may be unevenly distributed across glances, and gendered and racialized bodies are marked. Thus, in identifying for the first time this confluence of cruising, poetry, and visual culture, Parlett concludes that the visual erotic economy associated with gay cruising today, exemplified by the photographic grid of an app like Grindr, is not a uniquely contemporary phenomenon. Innovative, astute, and highly readable, and drawing on compelling archival material, The Poetics of Cruising is a must for scholars of queer and LGBTQ literature and culture, modern and contemporary poetry, visual studies, and the history of sexuality.

Wish List Belinda Williams, 2016-05-26 Could the wrong man on paper be the right man in real life? I know it's clichéd, but I'm a financial planner and I like lists. Except my girlfriends think that having a checklist for my ideal man is going a step too far. It doesn't matter that I'm the only one of us who is still unattached. Or that I've always dreamed of starting a family and settling down. I'm not going to lower my standards. I certainly wouldn't fall for a guy like Dave, who is opposite to me in every way. He's got bad boy written all over him, and his eyes are completely the wrong color. In fact, he doesn't tick any of my boxes. I can still admire him, though. And maybe flirt a little—but not too much. I need to keep things professional now he's a client. But the thing is, I've never met anyone like Dave before and I'm starting to wonder about the reasons behind my list. Reasons I've tried to leave in the past but are coming back to haunt me. Am I brave enough to rewrite my list? Or worse—get rid of it completely?

Athena could only wonder about how this could be attained—I can only wish—until chance showed itself to her; presenting an opportunity that could only be called destiny—and my wishes will become my life—discovering the book which would show her the way.
