News Pictures Jack Price,1937

News Pictures (Classic Reprint) Jack Price,2015-08-04 Excerpt from News Pictures Reviewing the changes in pictorial journalism that have occurred since the author's earlier work, News Photography, appeared in 1932 it was thought advisable to prepare an entirely new treatment of the subject rather than attempt to incorporate these changes in any revision of that work. During the five years that have elapsed press photography has been vitally affected by several revolutionary factors. Modern technology has disturbed the old order and relegated to oblivion equipment and practices that once represented perfection. The mutations in mechanics and chemistry have imposed upon newspapers some physical changes in their photographic plants and somewhat revised the operating technique of their camera staffs. To the training in journalism offered by numerous universities has been added a course in news photography. Thus the whole theory and practice of newspaper work receive academic endorsement and support. The trial-and-error school of instruction, the rugged old school of experience, and education by hard knocks must inevitably surrender to the dawning era that demands scholastic as well as practical training from the beginner. The resistless forces of a new dynamic progress are making themselves felt in the entire newspaper structure. Their effect upon its photography and its camera personnel are here considered in the light of what they have accomplished to improve the quality and volume of news pictures. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books. Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work. Forgotten Books uses state-of-the-art technology to digitally reconstruct the work, preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy. We do, however, repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully; any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works.

Getting the Picture Jason E. Hill,Vanessa R. Schwartz,2020-09-09 Powerful and often controversial, news pictures promise to make the world at once immediate and knowable. Yet while many great writers and thinkers have evaluated photographs of atrocity and crisis, few have sought to set these images in a broader context by defining the rich and diverse history of news pictures in their many forms. For the first time, this volume defines what counts as a news picture, how pictures are selected and distributed, where they are seen and how we critique and value them. Presenting the best new thinking on this fascinating topic, this book considers the news picture over time, from the dawn of the illustrated press in the nineteenth century, through photojournalism's heyday and the rise of broadcast news and newsreels in the twentieth century and into today's digital platforms. It examines the many kinds of images: sport, fashion, society, celebrity, war, catastrophe and exoticism; and many mediums, including photography, painting, wood engraving, film and video. Packed with the best research and full colour-illustrations throughout, this book will appeal to students and readers interested in how news and history are key sources of our rich visual culture.

The 10 Most Compelling News Images Frederick Koh, 2008-02 From the knockout photo of a boxing champ to the instantly recognizable snapshot of a rising mushroom cloud, these compelling news images are proof that a picture is worth a thousand words. Can a Compelling photo change the world? Book jacket.

Pictures on a Page Harold Evans, Edwin Taylor, 1997-01-01 For the general reader it is a classic collection of news photographs fascinating in their own right. For the professional and the student it remains an unrivalled study of photo-journalism, a complete analysis of how photographs are taken, selected and edited for newspapers and magazines. As the former editor of the SUNDAY TIMES and THE TIMES, Harold Evans is uniquely qualified to take the reader behind the images that the press provide. Many celebrated photographers were interviewed for the book, including Henri Cartier-Bresson, Snowdon, Bert Hardy, Bill Brandt, Don McCullin, and Eugene Smith. Many more have acclaimed it -including Helmut Newton, Richard Avedon and Arnold Newman.

The International Photojournalism Industry Jonathan Ilan, 2018-07-17 How are events turned into news pictures that define them for the audience? How do events become commodified into pictures that both capture them and reiterate the values of the agencies that sell them? This book looks at every stage of the production of news photographs as they move to and from the ground and are sold around the world. Based on extensive fieldwork at a leading international news agency that includes participant observation with photographers in the field, at the agency's local and global picture desks in Israel, Singapore, and the UK, in-depth interviews with pictures professionals, and observations and in-depth interviews at The Guardian's picture desk in London, the findings in this book point to a wide cultural production infrastructure hidden from – and yet also nurtured and thus very much determined by – the consumer's eye.

Ethical Evaluation of Manipulated Photos in News Luise Knah, 2011-09-27
Essay from the year 2011 in the subject Law - Media, Multimedia Law, Copyright, grade: 1,2, University of New South Wales, Sydney, language: English, abstract: Historically, photographs are considered to deliver an accurate description of a shown event as a 'snapshot of time'. 1 With digital technology and image alteration programs like Photoshop, this natural assumption has changed. Nowadays, every amateur is able to manipulate pictures and a lot of publications use the technology to enhance their photos. The question if photo manipulation is ethical in general is very broad and depends on the situation. The ethical evaluation in this essay focuses on the problematic application in news rooms. Even the slightest alterations can be considered as a violation of the truthful reportage of an event that has taken place. News organisations act by self-regulating policies and are not restricted by law regarding photo manipulation, including those in Australia. The industry standard is to allow the enhancement of photographs for clarity and definition, but altering the composition is to be frowned upon.<sup>2</sup> Journalists have to be cautious about their actions, because faked pictures jeopardize their own reputation as well as the credibility of the publication. Cropping out irrelevant details is a legitimate and well-known practise not only in news, but also in fashion, advertisement or even personal photography. The challenge is to evaluate the shift in the perception of the viewer.
